

” I love the family culture, its across the Company, you’re always being looked after.

Career Profile

Vicki, BSc, PhD

	Qualification awarding University:	University of Wisconsin-Madison
	Specialist Area:	Neuroscience, Oncology, Competitive intelligence
	Time with Lifescience Dynamics:	2.5 years
	Current role:	Consultant

What three words best describe you?

What’s one thing we don’t know about you?

- I love to explore nature! Currently trying to visit all US National Parks and at 47/63. Planning for more ex-US travels too
- Foodie! Open to any new food (and wine)
- Love stars and aurora
- Latest hobby is latte art

CAREER PROGRESSION

What is your career high to date?

To be honest, I don't think I've achieved my career high yet. I am happy with where I'm at and what I'm doing at the moment but there are always foreseeable challenges ahead. I always feel excited on what I may encounter and tackle in the future. Looking back, I am proud of what I have accomplished within my 2.5 years, from a supporting role to a leading role and now a project management role, constantly learning new skills from everyone in the Company.

Why have you joined Lifescience Dynamics?

Prior to joining Lifescience Dynamics, I briefly worked on competitive analysis in a biotech start-up, which involved identifying direct competitors and potential partnership opportunities. It has been an exciting topic as I'm able to oversee the therapy area as a whole and to conduct deep dives for specific indications and platform technologies.

What are the top three things you enjoy about being a member of the Lifescience Dynamics family?

Company/family culture: Rafaat loves to emphasize his open-door policy, but it's really across the entire Company that everyone is always available to chat if you need anything. Rafaat and Ayesha make their effort trying to know you as a person and that makes a huge difference compared to other workplaces. It becomes a culture that everyone keeps in mind and are always considerate of each other.

Mentorship: You are always being taken care of. You have your onboarding buddy and line manager from Day 1 who guide you through your professional career and towards your personal goals. Even when advancing to a PM role, there will be a project advisor that can help during that transition, which was extremely helpful for me before fully taking over full responsibility of a project/client.

Opportunities: There are always opportunities within the Company to explore. The Company does a great job trying to offer opportunities with regards to your interest or even if you want to expand your expertise into a different subject.

What are you looking forward to in your next step with Lifescience Dynamics?

We used to talk about “becoming the go-to person” for a specific indication or therapy area. As I'm taking an increasing amount of responsibility for projects and internal initiatives, I wish to also become the go-to person when it comes to project management, client relationship management and people management.

What would your advice be to someone considering joining the Company?

Do not shy away from any opportunities you may have! There are so many learning and leadership opportunities in LSD and I highly recommend being involved in anything that you may be interested in when you get the chance, or even ask for it!